Intergovernmental Committee for Economic and Labour Force Development (ICE) - Research Opportunity

(ICE) is seeking applications from qualified individuals to explore the workforce characteristics, issues and needs of Toronto's food and beverage processing sector. Best practices in workforce development strategies are also to be identified. The ICE Committee's purpose in commissioning the research is to inform the need for further action to better meet the needs of the sector's employers and workers – for example, to address labour market shortages and/or skills gaps, assist in the transition to new technologies, strengthen career ladders, reduce employee turnover, etc.

To apply, email a maximum five (5) page submission to info@icecommittee.org with the subject line "Research Proposal: Labour Market Considerations for Toronto's Food and Beverage Processing Sector". Your submission should outline how you propose to undertake the necessary work to address the project's research objectives and produce the deliverables within the indicated timeframe and include a brief description of the approach you will take to completing the research tasks and demonstrate your requisite experience and qualifications to carry out the project (maximum 2 pages). We will accept joint applications from groups of individuals or organizations as well as from consulting firms.

The submission deadline is Thursday, December 8, 2016, at 5:00pm.

For more information on eligibility, research tasks and the application process, please visit: <http://icecommittee.org/reports/ICE-Research-Proposal-Nov-18.pdf>

12th IPAC National Leadership Conference

February 6-7, 2017

Chelsea Hotel, 33 Gerrard Street West, Toronto

2017 ... Face the New Frontiers! Be Bold! Celebrate! Because we are 150 years old! As the above questions indicate, the conference theme is focused on looking forward – preparing for the next decade. Whether the new frontier is defined by the digital age, increased globalization and global competition, climate change and other threats to our environment, economic disparity, or other known and unknown variables, public sector institutions and leaders must be prepared to meet those challenges. Organizations need to be vibrant, relevant and responsive to the needs its citizens and the broader global community working together to find solutions. Leaders need to have a broad vision and the capacity to move from situation to situation quickly and surely, engage the community, and work collaboratively across departments, governments and nations.

Julian Stodd- a writer and consultant on the Social Age - will explore the mindset and skills required to be an effective leader in this new reality. Author of eight books, including Exploring the World of Social Learning, and The Social Leadership Handbook, and over a thousand articles and blog posts, Julian works on strategy and delivery with many global organizations.
