This year, students are invited to develop analysis-based proposals on "The Challenges of Global Health".

The 2019 edition of the Geneva Challenge is a project funded by Swiss Ambassador Jenö Staehelin and was supported by the late Kofi Annan as the high-patron of the contest. The Geneva Challenge aims to encourage interdisciplinary problem solving analysis among master students on advancing human development within the scope of a relevant topic.

Global Health is a defining challenge of tomorrow’s world and is a critical concern for both developing and developed countries. As the key to this issue is an interdisciplinary solution, crossing traditional boundaries between academic disciplines, we are inviting Master students from all academic programmes and from anywhere in the world to provide helpful strategic recommendations. Five prizes, one per continent, will be distributed.

Teams of 3-5 master students must submit an 8,000 word proposal which:

- Identifies a challenge stemming from global health;
- Construct an interdisciplinary analysis on how it affects different aspects of development in a specific (but transposable) context;
- Propose innovation at the policy, practice, process or technology levels turning the challenge into development opportunity.

The Geneva Challenge 2019 will distribute 25’000 CHF in monetary prizes and the finalists will be invited to publicly present their work in Geneva before a panel of high-level experts. Networking opportunities are also envisioned as part of the prize package.

GreenPAC Parliamentary Internship for the Environment

Applications are now open for the 2019-2020 Parliamentary Internship!

Application forms are due by midnight (EST) on March 15, 2019. If you have any questions or require reasonable accommodations during the application process, please contact internship@greenpac.ca prior to the application deadline. For a French version of the application form, click here.

The GreenPAC Parliamentary Internship for the Environment, with support from the Sustainability Network, offers young leaders (aged 18-30) the chance to gain invaluable training and experience from Canada’s top environmental champions on Parliament Hill. The program runs from September 2019 to June 2020, and includes a monthly stipend.

For the first two months of the program, interns will be involved in a national, non-partisan public engagement strategy in the lead up to the 2019 federal election – one of the most exciting times in politics. From November to June, each intern will be placed full-time in the Parliament Hill office of a Member of Parliament (MP) who has a proven record of environmental leadership. Reflecting GreenPAC’s commitment to nonpartisanship, host MPs come from across the political spectrum and from every major political party. During this time, interns will gain a deep, day-to-day understanding of the federal government, becoming well-versed in policy research, legislative affairs, communications and constituency work while also supporting Ottawa’s strongest champions for the environment. Outside the office, interns will meet leaders from the nonprofit and business sectors, attend exclusive events and take part in a broad range of leadership development programming.

As of September 2019, applicants must be between the ages of 18-30 and eligible to work in Canada. Selection criteria:

- Demonstrated leadership and passion for the environment through educational, employment and/or extra-curricular activities related to the environment
- Community and/or political engagement
- Involvement in Canadian political parties is considered an asset, but not required
- Bilingualism in French and English is considered an asset, but not required

More information about the internship and how to apply can be found here.
Apply Now to the Action Canada Fellowship

Shape your skills. Shape Canada. Join Canada's top incubator of policy leaders by applying to the 2019/2020 Action Canada Fellowship.

Apply before March 15 at 5 p.m. PST.

The Action Canada Fellowship is a 10-month public policy leadership program that aims to enhance young leaders’ understanding of the country and public policy choices for the future.

The Public Policy Forum and Action Canada have joined forces to expand Canada’s top incubator of new leaders.

Since 2003, Action Canada has successfully organized this national fellowship that emphasizes leadership development and civic engagement. It brings together Canadians from diverse backgrounds and from all regions to investigate timely, topical and strategic policy issues affecting Canada. Each year, approximately 16 Fellows enhance their leadership skills, forge lifelong connections with people and communities across the country, and promote greater civic engagement among all Canadians.

The Fellowship year is an intense and challenging experience. Over 10 months (between June and March), the Fellows, Mentors and Advisory Council members participate in four study tours, each in a different region of Canada. In March, Action Canada Fellows release their final reports and discuss their findings at a national conference. Each cohort of Fellows examines a different policy topic. For example, in 2017/2018, they looked at the transition to a low-carbon future. This year, it is the future of food. The theme for 2019/2020 will be announced after the next cohort has been selected.

Follow the 2018/19 Fellows on Twitter @ActionCanada as they prepare their recommendations for the final conference from March 4 to 7 in Ottawa.

24th Annual Glendon International Studies Symposium

March 29th 2019
9:00am - 5:00pm
Glendon College, York University
2275 Bayview Ave, North York, ON M4N 3M6

Each year, a group of students from the International Studies program features a country in this symposium. This year, our team chose to feature Latvia. We particularly chose Latvia this year because of its relevance in the international arena especially in the present day, such as through the celebration of its 100th year of independence and NATO's Operation Reassurance that is happening in Latvia. The aim of this project is not only to feature and understand the country, but also to foster ongoing diplomatic relations with the chosen country.

There will be an opportunity to engage with various people as we have invited the ambassador to Latvia, scholars, government officials, other students, and the community in general. Although Ex-President Vaira Vīķe-Freiberga sends her regrets, we have invited others from the parliament in Latvia, and await their finalization in schedules.

In addition, the wide-ranging educational topics at the Latvia symposium will consist of panels on relevant topics about Latvia, including history, international relations, business development, environment, and culture. Finally, there will also be cultural entertainment (music and Baltic exhibition) and a networking lunch to partake in.

The International Studies Department at Glendon Campus of York University celebrates the multidisciplinary lens when applying knowledge to the international realm. This will be reflected in our panel choices and we are quite enthusiastic to have diversity within these discussions.
